(1990-2011) TMI Focus
HEMI-LYNC Compilations

Hemi-Lync: Making Global Connections was a bulletin board that appeared regularly in the TMI Focus from 1992-2007. It was designed to connect readers with people, events, and publications around the world that had something to share about Hemi-Sync and The Monroe Institute.

Television (1992-2)
Nippon Television Network, "Life After Death, Life and Beyond"

On March 31st from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Tokyo time, this Japanese television special on out-of-body experiences and paranormal research was watched by an estimated 200 million viewers. A segment of the show was taped at TMI in February. Nippon's interest in TMI was OBEs and physiological monitoring of states of consciousness. Footage included an interview with Bob Monroe and sessions in the laboratory isolation booth.

Television (1995-2)
During the week of January 23, Paramount Television's Sightings program aired "The Healing Mind." This quality production included conversations with Gari Carter and her son and daughter, a segment on her use of the Surgical Support Series tapes, footage of The Monroe Institute laboratory and grounds, and an interview with F. Holmes (Skip) Atwater, Institute Research Director.

Television (1995-4)
On June 24, the Sightings program detailing Gari Carter's use of the Surgical Support Series to relieve the pain and anxiety associated with the multiple surgeries necessitated by a near-fatal automobile accident was re-run by the Fox Network. A brisk flurry of inquiries followed the showing of this excellent Paramount Television production.

Television (1996-1)
Mystical Virginia aired on WRIC Channel 8 (m ABC affiliate), Richmond, Virginia, at 6:00 p.m. EST on November 1. TMI was featured, together with a number of other organizations with an esoteric focus.

The abilities of remote viewer Joseph McMoneagle were Put to the Test with outstanding results on the ABC program of the same name. It was shown on November 30th at 8:00 p.m. EST

Television (1996-3)
On April 3, 1996, a two-hour special entitled Life After Death was shown during prime time on Japanese television. Produced by Fuji Television under the direction of Mr. Kobayoshi, the program featured TMI as well as subject locations in Germany and Hong Kong. Miki Asakura, nationally known Japanese singing star, experienced Hemi-Sync in our laboratory isolation booth for the filming. The results were so profound that Miki and half of the film crew intend to return for a program.

Television (1997-1)
This summer a CNN television crew filmed a brainmapping session in the TMI laboratory with Professional Member Elisabeth Y. Fitzhugh. A portion of the footage was selected as a two-minute short subject on Turner Broadcasting System's TOPX and aired October 6 at 10:00 P.M. on to an audience of approximately twenty-seven million following the presidential debates. Research Director Skip Atwater was shown commenting on the dramatic difference between the subject's baseline brain-wave patterns and those observed while connecting to expanded levels of consciousness.

Television (1998-2)
Skip Atwater and Joseph McMoneagle were interviewees for the "CIA Psychics" segment of The Unexplained, produced by the Arts and Entertainment Network. Skip, Joe, and other participating remote viewers discussed their roles in the U.S. government's remote viewing program. The show aired on national networks on February 12 and 14.

Television Appearances (1999-4)
At 10:00 p.m. on September 17, the Ancient Astronauts documentary filmed by Beyond Productions was aired on The Learning Channel as part of its Science Frontiers series. Skip Atwater's experiment in the cave beneath the pyramid at Teotihuacån, Mexico [HEMISYNC JOURNAL, vol. XVII, no. 1, winter 1999], and The Monroe Institute's work figured prominently. The international version gave us even more coverage.

August 5, 1999, on the CBS show 48 Hours, Joseph McMoneagle performed his second successful on-camera remote viewing. This time he targeted a CBS staffer at Niagara Falls. As the scene shifted between Joe—sitting in a room miles away—and the target, he deftly sketched the Niagara ferry and tuned in to the frenetic bustle of the tourist crowds.

Television (2000-2)
Late in 1999, director Ansley Bell visited the Institute laboratory to film material for Actuality Productions' "Afterlife Special." The TMI segment, featuring Professional Member Richard Werling, aired on April 30, 2000, on the Arts & Entertainment network as part of the show "Beyond Death. "

Television (2001-3)
On April 11, 2001, Carol Sabick-Quinn, TMI trainer and a member of our Professional Division and Board of Advisors, talked about Hemi-Sync and The Monroe Institute on the internationally televised Cristina show. More than one million viewers in Spain, South America, and the United States watch the Spanish equivalent of the Oprah Winfrey show.

Television (2001-4)
Hidden History: Psychic Espionage aired on the History Channel at 8 P.M. EST on September 27. The program focused on remote viewing and featured interviews with Hal Puthoff, Skip Atwater, Joe McMoneagle, and Paul Smith.

Television (2002-4)
Sustaining Member Bob Seamon informs us that TMI was included in Science of the Impossible: Invisible Forces, which aired twice on the Science Channel in May 2002. The show focused on the possibility of ESP and telekinesis, but the out-of-body-experience was the main topic of the Monroe segment.

Television (2003-1&2)
Nippon Television aired Part lll of “FBI: Psychic Detectives” on January 18, 2003. On November 21, 2002, Joe McMoneagle—working from Virginia—remote viewed three missing people. The television crew and a detective agency then used Joe's map drawings and descriptions of their locations to search for the targets.

From November 30 to December 3, 2002, a program showcasing OUTREACH Trainer Deborah Sachs's workshops and The Monroe Institute was aired at seven different time slots in the U.S. and Portugal on GNT-Globosat television.

Television (2004-1&2)

Joe McMoneagle continues to amaze the producers and staff of Nippon Television's “FBI: Psychic Detectives” by successfully remote viewing the locations of missing persons. Part 5 of the series aired on Nippon television on January 17, 2004. For details of Joe's remote viewing exploits and upcoming radio interviews, go to http://mvw.mcagle.com/remote-viewing/

Television (2007-1&2)
On May 3, 2007, Professional Member Linda Leblanc appeared on Sigma TV's popular afternoon talk show With Love, broadcast from Nicosia, Cyprus. Linda was interviewed as a

Monroe Institute OUTREACH Trainer and spoke on the subject of out-of-body experiences and communication with the dead. The station also showed portions of the TMI DVD with a voiceover in Greek explaining binaural beat sound technology and the work of the Institute. Sigma TV intends to use additional material from the hour-long interview they taped in Linda's home for other shows.

Television (2007-3&4)

Deborah Sachs, TMI Professional Member and OUTREACH Trainer, was interviewed on September 4, 2007, by Jö Soares on his popular international Programa do Jö talk show. The show is part of regular programming in Deborah's home country of Brazil and is also broadcast on a “pay to view” basis in Europe, North, South and Central America, Asia, Australia, and Africa. Deborah's Web site crashed due to the number of “hits” it received following the program, and by early October the total number of hits had exceeded 900,000. She received a veritable tsunami of e-mail inquiries and her OUTREACH workshop schedule is full.

Host Soares provided an excellent forum for Deborah to share her knowledge by asking questions about Bob Monroe and the founding of The Monroe Institute as well as TMI research and programs, the Dolphin Energy Club, and OBEs. She was also able to conduct an experiential Hemi-Sync exercise for the enthusiastic studio audience. The show will be seen in reruns while Jö Soares is on vacation in the first three months of 2008. Deborah has been invited back for an encore interview in spring 2008.
